

This architectural floor plan shows a building layout. On the left side, there is a large, irregularly shaped room, possibly a hall or a large office, with a thick black outline. To its right, there is a long, narrow corridor or hallway. Further to the right, there are several smaller, rectangular rooms. At the top of the plan, there is a small, square room. The overall layout suggests a functional building with a central area and several smaller, specialized spaces.

